Event Description
The Cornell Cooperative Extension of Oneida County is offering a 2-day National Farm Disaster Preparedness workshop for firefighters, EMT’s and first responders. The training will help responders to a farm disaster prepare for a response to accidents involving farm vehicles on the road or the farm, farm fires or structure collapse and storm damage.

Recent events in New York State have proven that we cannot predict when or how a catastrophe will happen, but we can be prepared by offering this training for those that could help control the outcome when disaster strikes.

All emergency responders are invited to attend this training at the Extension office, 121 Second Street, Oriskany, NY; on Saturday, June 30th from 8 am to 5pm, and Sunday, July 1st from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm.

The workshop will include classroom instruction, visits to two local dairy farms on the first day and an equipment entrapment demonstration on the second day.

The program will be limited to 30 participants.
Fee for the 2-day workshop is $90.00 and includes lunch, information materials and a uniform patch.

Preregistration for the workshop is required by June 25
